OF CENTENARY COLLEGE

SHREVEPORT, LOUISIANA

A PARTIAL RECORD OF OUR YEAR

Tiring of the drab and troubled world that we live in today, we, the Yoncopin Staff of 1941, have discarded the formality of former annuals and, with time as our theme, have presented the events of the college year in their seasonal sequence. With cartoons and informal snapshots, we have tried to bring, in a lighter vein, a clear picture of those "glorious college days."

Dr. Charles Briscoe Carter

December 31, 1865—January 23, 1941

The son of an alumnus and former president of Centenary College, himself the holder of both an earned and honorary degree, long time member of the Board of Trustees, for more than half a century a preacher of the Gospel and always the very flower of Christian manhood, Dr. Briscoe Carter earned and received the love of all who knew him.

O R I A M . . .

"Mimi," as she was affectionately known, was an inspiration to the rest of us. Her sweet smile and friendly disposition helped all of us to better prepare for the trials of the day. She was a true Centenarian, ever ready to help a friend, or just a fellow student; willing to cooperate with the students, the faculty and her school.

Miss Miriam Russ

. . . and the season of falling leaves would not be the same without the thrills of football and its own

inimitable atmosphere

When the 1940-41 season opened, a new coach stepped on the horizon to guide the athletics of Centenary College. Jake Hanna, one of the greatest stars to ever wear the Maroon and White, returned to his Alma Mater to give it the benefit of his athletic knowledge. Coach Hanna came back to Centenary, not only as a former star, but also with a fine nine-year coaching record in high schools of Louisiana and Texas.

JAKE L. HANNA, B.S.
Director of Athletics and Head Coach
B.S., Centenary College, 1929.

TOM COBB, A.B.
Assistant Coach
A.B., Northwestern Oklahoma Teachers College, 1935.

ELMER SMITH, A.B.
Assistant Coach
A.B., Hendrix College, 1931.

He is unique in being the first Centenary graduate to serve as coach for the Gents. In addition to serving as head football coach, Hanna also is in charge of the baseball squad and his record in baseball is indeed a good one.

To assist Coach Hanna in his many duties, are Coaches Elmer Smith and Tom Cobb. Coach Smith came to Centenary with a fine athletic background and today serves as chief scout and backfield coach of the football team, head basketball coach, having taken over his duty last year, and assistant baseball coach. Coch Cobb came to Centenary in 1936 after a professional football career and today serves as line coach during football season and devotes his time to intra-mural athletics the rest of the year.

THE ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

AND HIS STAFF . . . . .

The fourth man on the coaching staff this year was a new man, Norman Buckner. Coach Buckner received his athletic experience at Tulane University where he was an All-American guard on the football team. His duties were concerned with the Freshmen, whom he coached in both football and basketball. As assistant to Buckner, Centenary retained the services of Alvin Birkelback, captain of the 1939 gridiron squad, who added his college experience to complete the coaching staff.

Not a member of the coaching staff proper, but certainly one of the most valuable cogs in the athletic machinery is Marvin "Hoot" Gibson, who for many years has been handling the training of the Gents. "Hoot" is a landmark around the gym and his services to the department are indispensable.

CHARLTON LYONS

HARDIN-SIMMONS,

The 1940 edition of the Centenary College Football Squad has just finished a season that will long be remembered as the season, which, although not the most successful ever played by the Maroon and White, was one of credit to a new coach and a bunch of Sophomores. The final results showed that the Gentlemen had dropped seven and won three.

But even this is not so bad when you discover that two of their conquerors were undefeated for the season and that a third was the runner-up in the Southwest Conference race.

The Gentlemen squad, composed mainly of a fighting band of Sophomores, opened the season by dropping a heartbreaker to the Cowboys from Hardin-Simmons by a 15-13 count. The Maroon and White warriors fought a brilliant uphill battle, for after trailing by two touchdowns in the first half, they came back to lead the Cowboys 13-12 going into the last few minutes, only to have victory snatched from their grasp by the twenty-five yard field goal of Murray Evans, substitute center. Evans is the same player whose extra point caused the Gentlemen a 7-6 defeat in the 1939 campaign. Although the Gents played their hearts out to win this initial contest, the last-minute kick gave the Texans the game, but in Owen Goodnight and "Scat" Russell, the Gents met two of the finest backs in the Southwest, who went on to lead their team to an undefeated season.

The second contest for the Gentlemen proved the most disastrous of the ten played, because the Texas Christian Horned Frogs before a home crowd of some 8,000, opened their season with a field day, rolling up 41 points against the Gents' 6. It was one of those games when everything one team does is wrong and everything the other does is right. For although T. C. U. used thirty players, they just couldn't make a mistake and they turned in their best performance of the year. To point out the real situation in Fort Worth, Felix R. McKnight, Associated Press writer, made this observation about the game: "Centenary wasn't as bad as the score indicates. They were the victim of breaks that, to say the least, are infrequent."

Following the Fort Worth encounter, the Gentlemen, accompanied by the band and cheering section, journeyed to Houston to meet Rice, their third Texas team and one of the powers of the Southwest Conference. Here for the third time in as many weeks, the Gents were overpowered by a larger and more experienced team, this time by a 25-0 score. The Centenary offensive folded up and while Weems and Keel, two Sophomore flashes were scampering all over the field, the Gents were stopped cold. This contest was the opening game for the Owls and was played before a crowd of 15,000.

On October 12th, Centenary entertained the Billikens of the University of St. Louis under lights, and scratched the win column for the first time as they handed the visitors an impressive 19-6 defeat. This contest was featured by the 85-yard jaunt of Truman "Chief" Johnson early in the first quarter and it was Johnson also who scored the second tally on a pass from James "Cotton" Barnes. In this victory, all the Gentlemen played well and for the first time, they showed their offensive strength.

With three losses and one victory under their belts, the Gents made their longest trip of the season across the desert to Tucson, Arizona, to help the University Wildcats to celebrate their Homecoming before some 10,000 people. The first half, the Gentlemen fought valiantly to mark up their second win and as the second half commenced, the score was tied, but the superior power of the Wildcats, led by a brilliant back, Johnny Black, along with the difference in altitude, soon made it evident that the Gents wouldn't be able to keep the pace. Although they were severely defeated by the score of 29-6, the kicking of Delmar Hamby and Mayo Faith caused considerable comment among the Westerners.

The following week, the Centenary College Gents went to Natchitoches to engage the Normal Demons, for the first time on Demon soil. The Gentlemen, although they were the underdogs at the outset, outplayed the Demons for three and a half periods, but gave the game away on fumbles and penalties. The tide turned against the Gents in the fourth quarter when Roland Migues, Normal back, galloped 78 yards for a score to give his team a 7-0 victory over Centenary. "Chief" Johnson once again proved one of the most powerful runners to ever don a Centenary uniform for time and time again he ripped holes in the Normal forward wall for substantial gains. However, scoring chances were always given away by fumbles, and the Gents could never cross the final marker.

The second long-sought victory for Centenary came when they traveled to St. Louis to meet the University of Washington Bears on their home ground. It was not only their second victory but also the second time they had taken the number of a St. Louis team, this time by a score of 19-14. The Gents were outplayed by the Bears the first half, but after the intermission, the story was a different one. With J. F. "Fizz" Wilkins leading a smashing running attack and with James "Cotton" Barnes passing successfully first to Johnson and then to Lavelle Murphy, the Gents iced their second game with a lightning finish late in the last quarter. Bud Schwenk and Jack Frost proved the outstanding threats for the Bears.

On November the 11th, while the country was celebrating the Armistice Centenary was visiting the Red Raiders of Texas Tech in Lubbock, with the idea in mind of knocking the flashy Texans from the ranks of the undefeated. Ramrodded by the accurate sharpshooting of Barnes, the Gentlemen scored early and threw a scare into the Red Raiders, but at the start of the second half, the superior reserves of the Texans wore out a tired. travel-worn Centenary team, that had played only two home games in eight starts, and the final score of 26-6 showed the power of the Lubbock team.

Although the Gentlemen hadn't stopped at home in weeks, the next week, they were off again, this time to Memphis to play the Lynx of Southwestern who had held Clemson to a 13-13 tie two weeks before. On a field that was soggy and muddy due to rain, the Gents came through with a Garrison finish to take the Lynx by a 14-6 count. Southwestern was the first to reach pay dirt but the Gentlemen came back to tally with Barnes kicking the important point to give Centenary a one point lead. But this one point lead did not satisfy the Gents and the climax of the game came when center, James Campbell, intercepted a pass in the last quarter and jaunted 52 yards for the touchdown that salted the game away. One of the most remarkable things about the game was the forty yard kicking average Mayo Faith kept that day with a wet ball on a field that was slippery and muddy. It was nothing short of phenomenal.

Centenary closed the season with its customary Thanksgiving day tussle against the Bulldogs of Louisiana Tech and in addition to being the final game it was also Homecoming for the Gents. The game was played in Shreveport and for the first time since 1921, Tech acquired a victory over the Gents. The game was a bitterly contested one which was decided when a Bulldog back intercepted a pass on his own 25 yard line and ran 75 yards for a touchdown. Although the whole team showed well, the outstanding play of the game came when Mayo Faith, standing deep in his own territory, kicked some 85 odd yards over the head of the safety man to the one-foot line of Tech where the ball was downed. This contest was the last time seniors James Barnes, James Campbell, Norris McCrary, F. M. May, and J. F. Wilkins would ever wear the Maroon and White of Centenary in battle and they all turned in creditable performances.

All in all, Centenary's season, although not as brilliant as some previous years, was far from unsuccessful because with a new coach, a new system, and a squad composed mainly of Sophomores who were rather inexperienced, one could hardly expect miracles. The entire season was summarized rather well by George W. White writing for Eddie Dooley's Football Annual when he said, "Obviously though, with Hanna installing a new boiler system in the cellar, no one has a right to holler, if there isn't too much steam heat upstairs."

THE PEP SQUAD

The cheer promotion jobs were ably filled by Billie Katherine Pryor, Betty Mae Coburn, Ollie Day, and Camp Flournoy, head cheerleader, elected by the student body. In Day and Flournoy, Centenary saw two of the peppiest and most energetic pep promoters to ever hold a megaphone and their wise cracks often pepped up the spirits of the crowd.

Billie Katherine Pryor Ollie Day Betty Mae Coburn Camp Flournoy

Starting the season with one of the largest squads in history, the Centenary Freshmen grid team turned in another successful season. Under the guidance of Coaches Norman Buckner and Alvin Birkelbach, the Frosh made a good showing against the teams that they played in addition to scrimmaging the varsity all season.

Their first game was against the Green Ripple, Tulane freshman, and even though they were defeated by a count of 13 to 7, the game was the talk of everywhere. Supposedly outweighed and outclassed the Junior Gents astounded the New Orleanians by holding the Greenies for a while and then the climax came when diminutive Wallace Spenser, Centenary back, dashed 85 yards for a touchdown through the entire Tulane team. However, the superior power of the Greenies was too much and they pushed over two tallies to take the game.

1940 Junior Gents

The Gents then returned and again took up their primary purpose which was getting the varsity in shape for their contests. It was soon evident that changing offenses and defenses every week at the varsity's will was having its effect on the Frosh because in the next two contests they were decisively defeated by Louisiana Tech's Freshmen and Northeast Junior College. The climax of the season came, however when the Junior Gents tackled the Junior Demons from Normal and handed them a 7 to 6 licking. This made the season a successful one, for in this victory they had revenged the varsity defeat by Normal.

This Freshmen team added many hopefuls to the varsity for the coming year in Jack Baldwin, Raymond Daugherty, Forest Lee, and Eugene Russ, whom the coaches have found some outstanding ball players and they promise to see plenty of action on Centenary teams in the future.

THE CONGLOM

The business managers and editor check up on copy.

While summer days waned into Fall, the staff of the Conglomerate was busy planning the layouts for the 1940-1041 year on Centenary Campus. Editor Russell Stewart was ably assisted by Associate Editor Frank Word, Business Manager S. E. Florsheim, Sports Editor Charles Knight, and Woman's Editor Eilleen Maynard. Then came the Draft; off to the army went Associate Word and Business Manager Rollo, up from the ranks came Reporter Ann Burnette and Assistant Gwin Morrison to fill these vacancies. Third loss to Uncle Sam was Hugh White, whose columns were among the favorites of the campus.

ERATE . . . 1941

Expressing the students' opinions on campus affairs, the Conglomerate newshounds put pencil and pen to work in order to produce such outstanding papers as the blue-fronted Homecoming, the Merry Christmas Edition, and the April Fool Special. Reporters Bettis, Shaw, Boddie, and Harris turned in copy that were to become some of the biggest hits of the paper. Gossip columns appeared under the name of "Conglomeration" and "It Appears From Here," their source a mystery, their composers ghost-writers. Favorite colmuns were "Forecast," "Gentleman of the Week," and "Conglomeration," while the "Student Directory," "Fashion," "Hep Kat Sez," and "News Briefs" became new Features.

M. M. Waldroup, Gloria Brown, Sudie Baker, Henry Shuey, Florence Kendrick, Emilie Anne Connell, Azalie Webb, Ellen Eastham, Ann Thibodeaux, and Robert Webster were reporters on the Staff, assisting the Editor and his Associate Editors in production of the official student newspaper of our Centenary College, known to its readers as the Conglomerate.

THE CENTENARY GE

The Centenary band might be truthfully said to have been two separate organizations this year. One a military and marching band, led by Professor O. Lincoln Igou, during the fall; the other an excellent modern concert group organized and directed by Gideon Waldrop, during the spring.

Although there were only three home football games, the band played for five during the season, traveling to Houston and Natchitoches for the other two. The marching stunts were generally good, but not nearly as spectacular as those of previous years. Charles Strickland for his second year as drum major led the band and Maroon Jackets in formations.

Director Igou and many members of the band left for military service at mid-term, leaving Texan Waldrop to take over. Coming from a state where college bands are rated according their ability to "swing it," Waldrop introduced modern music on the band programs, but not on the "Milenburg" plan of former years. Sophisticated Ellington and Gould arrangements were featured, as well as many other similar compositions.

In addition to a chapel program in March, the concert band gave a series of Sunday afternoon concerts in the late spring, and ended the year with a new lease on life.

This year marks the tenth anniversary of the Maroon Jackets, a junior and senior co-ed organization. Mrs. A. R. Campbell organized the first group of Maroon Jackets in 1931, thereby giving Centenary the dictinction of being the first college to have an organization of this kind. There now are many similar organizations in nearly every college and high school in neighboring cities.

The Maroon Jackets are selected on the basis of scholarship, character, and leadership. There are three representatives from each sorority and non-sorority group on the campus. The duties of the Maroon Jackets are many, assist at registration, usher in Chapel, march with the Band, and act as official hostesses at all college functions.

MAROON JACKETS

Mr. Ray Williams, local florist, provides each girl with white flowers for each football game. This year Mr. Williams was presented with an honorary key showing the appreciation of the Maroon Jackets for his courtesies.

At the beginning of the year the old uniforms of the Jackets were discarded for new, specially designed ones. These new jackets are considered the most outstanding of any seen on the campuses of other schools.

The four girls chosen to appear in this year's edition of Who's Who were members of the Maroon Jackets, Eilleen Maynard, Frances Goodson, Juanita Ryland, and Eloise Thompson.

Social activities of the group for this year included several luncheons, parties, and the annual dinner given by Mrs. Campbell.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

The past year was a trying one for the Pan-Hellenic, what with the unusually large amount of sorority material in the freshman class and each sorority attempting to outdo the other in rushing. The council started the ball rolling with a Pan-Hellenic tea in mid-summer, marking the beginning of that tiring task—summer rushing.

Pan-Hellenic determines the length of rushing, the number of parties to be given, the conditions for pledging. The spirit of co-operation is vital to this group for without it Pan-Hellenic could do little or nothing. A new procedure for informing the rushees of formal rush rules was inaugurated at the beginning of school. To the combined rush list of all the sororities was sent a list of rushing rules. This did away with many of the usual slipups in rushing.

Pan-Hellenic was again hostess to the Centenary students and returning alumni at the annual Homecoming Dance. This affair was the last of its sort, since the Pan-Hellenic has been designated as a business organization and, as such, cannot entertain.

This year brings to an end the usual freedom in pledging. Beginning with the fall of '41 each chapter is limited to 45 members and pledges. Whether this plan will be successful remains to be seen.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Inter-Fraternity Council is composed of six members, two from each organization, usually the president and some other officer, elected at the beginning of each school term. The purpose of the Council is to develop a more brotherly feeling among the Greek letter organizations, and to govern all fraternal activities in regard to rushing, pledging, initiating and social.

Under the supervision of William Steger the Council has had little activity during the past year. Very lenient in enforcing the few laws, the keepers of "fraternal peace" found plenty of time on their hands and nothing to do.

Continuing the plan of deferred rushing, proposed and put in effect in 1938, the Council eliminated a major fraternal headache by allowing each organization to carry out its own rush campaign.

BETA IOTA CHAPTER

The Zetas began their year on the campus with the pledging of twenty-two neophytes. The "shoes" of Rush-Captain Lorraine O'Roark, who took leave of Centenary for the State University, were ably filled by Gerry Baird, and in late September new pledges were introduced to the campus with a Halloween dance.

Taking active part in the home football celebrations, the Zetas appeared in their distinctive turquoise and grey uniforms. For the third consecutive year Centenary's Homecoming Queen was a member of the fraternity. Dorothy Robinson, tiny prexy of the Beta Iota chapter, appeared before Centenary's alumni and guests at the half of the game between Tech and the Gents, to be crowned Queen of the occasion by Dr. Pierce Cline.

Late fall . . . and Class Officer elections. Five members of Zeta were elected by the campus to serve as officers of the upper classmen. Members of Pan-Hellenic Council, Cen Coes, and Maroon Jackets, Dorothy Robinson and Grace Ingersoll added to their list of laurels the Secretary and Treasurer of the Senior Class. Junior Classmen were officered by Vice-President Ann Burnette and Secretary Helen Heath, while Mary Louise Gustine became Vice-President of the Sophomores. Versatile Elise Montgomery served as Vice-President of the Fraternity, President of the Pan-Hellenic Council, Spanish Club, and Chi Sigma Nu. Zetas entered all phases of Campus activity and in many of the organizations such as W.A.A., Chi Sigma Nu, French Club, and others. Helen Shaw won second place in a state oratorical contest, Virginia Reily became Cen Coe President. In the late winter a Zeta became Associate Editor of the paper. Zetas are not only active in work on the Centenary Campus but have many members serving organizations related to the college—Dorothy Porter is correspondent for one of the local papers, Ann Burnette is representative to Mademoiselle, and members of the fraternity are active in work with the Red Cross, Little Theater, and other organizations of the city.

Celebrating their fourteenth year on Centenary's Campus with their traditional White Banquet and Formal, the Zetas climaxed one of their best years as the oldest co-ed organization on the campus.

New and old members alike enjoy this formal.

It's all smiles from Zetas after pledging.

IOTA GAMMA CHAPTER

The Chi Omegas began their thirteenth successful year at Centenary with a new lodge, adding zest to the campus by using the Alma Mater's colors, Maroon and White.

Chi Omega was founded April 5, 1895, at the University of Arkansas. The sorority now has ninety-six active chapters.

In the class officer elections this year, five members placed. Eilleen Maynard was elected Vice-President of the Senior Class; Ann Thibodeaux represented Chi O's in the Sophomore Class as Secretary. In the Freshman Class, three of the four positions were occupied by Chi Omegas, namely Betsie Russ, Glennye Harmon, and Dorothy Ann Morehead.

Under the capable guidance of Azile Wagner, the sorority has the largest membership of any on the campus. They led this year in the pledging of thirty-three girls.

"Prexy" Azile has attained such honors as member of the Pan-Hellenic, Student Senate, Alpha Chi, Cen Coe, and Maroon Jackets. Pledge Mother Eilleen Maynard is outstanding. Among her many attainments, Eilleen serves as Co-ed Vice-President of the student body and Student Senate, Secretary of the Maroon Jackets, member of Pan Hellenic, Cen Coe; holds position of Woman's Editor of the Conglomerate, and was elected to Who's Who. The Dormitory Council has as its president, a Chi O, Paulyn Gill, who is also a member of the Student Senate. Chairman of the Beautification Committee of the Student Senate was Mattie Elizabeth Baker. Lucy Bettis, Sorority Correspondent, is also a Cen Coe, a Conglomerate reporter, and is outstanding in several clubs. Chi Omegas are versatile in their accomplishments; Betty May Coburn led cheers for the Gents during the football season; outstanding in Kollege Kapers was Betty Brewer, who won acclaim wherever she went; spring came and found two of the members, Jimmye Brown and Mary Marie Hogg, among the six beauties; Norman Robertson was elected Kappa Sigma sponsor from Chi Omega.

Further providing their versatility, the Chi Omegas won the soft ball tournament, competing against the other two sororities, the Independents, and the Aufaits.

Grand introduction for new members.

Pretty, popular Jimmye and an admirer.

BETA GAMMA CHAPTER

Beta Gamma of Alpha Xi Delta celebrated its tenth successful year in March of 1941. This marks the years that the girls in the rustic brown lodge have worn a quill for their symbol.

Alpha Xi Delta was founded at Lombarde College, Galesburg, Illinois, in 1893 and at present proudly recognizes fifty-nine active chapters.

The local chapter this year was led by the president, Frances Goodson, who wielded a stern gavel and guided the girls through another successful year. Besides being queen of her college Chapter, Frances is most outstanding and versatile in extra-curricula activities, being a Maroon Jacket, three times a class officer, a Cen Coe, Secretary of the Student Body, Secretary of the Student Senate, Who's Who, Pan-Hellenic, and a consecutive beauty winner throughout her entire college years. Next in command in the little brown house is Audrie Fuller who has an outstanding record as a Maroon Jacket. Eloise Thompson who served her chapter as a most efficient secretary also served this year as President of the Maroon Jackets, and was listed in America's Who's Who in Colleges. Dorothy Hinkle brought glory to her sorority in being Vice-President of Cen Coe, and Correspondent of her sorority and Champion of the girls' ping pong division. LaRue Powell has been chosen as next year's head of Alpha Xi Delta and brings with her a record to carry on as commander-in-chief for the coming year. She is an alternate Maroon Jacket, a member of the Student Senate, and a Cen Coe. Rush captain for this year, and next year's second in command is Helen Dwire who besides being a member of Pan-Hellenic Council, is a member of the Yoncopin staff, Secretary and Treasurer of the Spanish Club, a member of the Dramatics Club, and has served two years as one of the sponsors of Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

Besides the many honors that have come to the Alpha Xi Delta way each year their old English style house is always open to other groups, and friendliness and a cheerful atmosphere prevails always inside. Each year their two annual celebrations are Rose banquet in the fall and Founder's Day in the spring.

Aufait officers get down to business

CENTENARY CHAPTER

Organized last year by Juanita Ryland, the Aufaits have had another successful year and have established themselves as a permanent organization on the Centenary campus. According to what has been done in the past two years a bright future is in sight for this group. Aufait is a club composed of those who are not affiliated with a Greek organization on the campus. Meetings are held once a week in the Student Union Building at which time programs are presented.

Together, the Aufait and Gentry have given several informal parties and openhouses. In this way, the non-fraternity men and women were brought into the friendly social gatherings that are essential in college life. This was the first time on the campus that two non-Greek social organizations have been a part of the campus life.

Scholastically Aufait ranks very high, and a large number of its members are outstanding in campus activities. Particularly noteworthy are: Juanita Ryland, was written up in Who's Who and is a Maroon Jacket; Ethel Cady, hard-working Co-Editor of Yoncopin, belonging to Maroon Jackets and is a member of the Student Senate; Lou Dell Liston, President W. A. A. and also a Maroon Jacket; Virginia Breithaupt, President Cenhomec; Carolyn Lunny, Alpha Sigma Chi, Alpha Sigma Pi; Dorothy Durr, Alpha Sigma Chi, Psi Delta Chi, Cenhomec. There are many who participate in Kollege Kapers, W.A.A., Student Senate, and Scholastic fraternities.

The capable sponsors for Aufait are Mrs. A. R. Campbell, Mrs. Bryant Davidson, and Mrs. W. E. Wallace, Jr.

EPSILON CHAPTER

Although handicapped by the total loss of their new fraternity house in the storm which struck Centenary's campus last spring, the Epsilon Chapter of Kappa Sigma had a very successful year. As the fraternity's plans for a new home have not been completed, the Kappa Sigmas are temporarily occupying a house near the campus, pending the construction of their new home.

Mrs. Bonnie K. Batchelor serves the fraternity as their housemother, assisting at all social functions and ready at any time to give aid and advice to one of "her boys."

During Christmas the Chapter sponsored a drive to help the needy of Shreveport and vicinity by collecting clothing and food. A large quantity of these necessities were distributed by the Chapter, and special attention was given to providing those children of school age with warm clothing. The success of the drive surpassed all expectations and the past Christmas was one of the happiest in the Chapter's history.

Outstanding members of the Kappa Sigma include Gwin Morrison, co-business manager of the Conglomerate and Vice-President of the Commerce Club; Sigmund Florsheim, co-business manager of the Conglomerate; Bill Graham, Co-Editor of the Yoncopin; Carl Vollmer, President of the Sophomore Class and Psi Delta Chi, Chairman of the Chapel Committee; Earl Harter, Vice-President of the Interfraternity Council.

The Kappa Sigmas were also active in the Student Senate and the honorary organizations on the campus.

Special recognition is given to Professor Robert S. See for his interest in Kappa Sigma and the active part he takes in the affairs of the fraternity of which he is an alumnus. The outstanding social function was a banquet given by the local alumni group entertaining the actives and pledges at the beginning of the year.

Very instrumental in the capacity of counselor of the Chapter was Elmo P. Lee, Jr., alumnus advisor.

Come on Harter, let's smile for beautiful Beverly.

Newly elected officers and dates strike a pose.

ALPHA IOTA CHAPTER

Continuing a tradition of several years, the Alpha Iota Chapter of Kappa Alpha came through the school year of 1940-41 with a most enviable record of accomplishments. Under the capable leadership of President William Steger and with the combined interest of the active alumni group, the Kappa Alphas had a most remarkable year.

Representing the Crimson and Gold in the realm of scholastic achievements were George Hearne, President of Alpha Chi, and Joe Stephens occupying a similar office in Alpha Sigma Pi, both of these organizations being honorary scholastic Fraternities.

Predominate in a great many other activities, the KA's proved their popularity and versatility. Some of the most outstanding members included: Henry Shuey, President of the Alpha Sigma Chi, Chemistry society; Clint Teacle, President of the French Club; Gilbert Hetherwick as Vice-President of the Spanish Club. In the Commerce Club three of KA's sons served as President, Vice-President, and Secretary-Treasurer, namely, Lewis Finnell, Frank Word, and Robert Webster. Veteran debaters Webster and Stephens again represented Centenary in the Forsensic field.

Those Southern Gentlemen from Alpha Iota proved their popularity on the campus by winning a majority of the school elections—the office of Senior Class President went to Bill Steger, who also presided at student body and Student Senate meetings. Hetherwick and Griffith successfully came through the elections with the office of President in the Junior and Freshman classes. In Kollege Kapers Mal McIlwain was M. C. for his third consecutive year. Head man of the cheering staff was Camp Flournoy with Ollie Day as his capable assistant. Those chosen to represent Centenary College in Who's Who were Steger, Knight, Hetherwick, Hearne, and McIlwain.

Sad note of the year was the enlistment of four of Centenary's well-known Kappa Alphas. We refer to Corporal Hugh White, and privates Hugh McCall, Robert Ray, and Frank Word.

Thus Kappa Alpha felt justly proud of this year's record of service to its school and country.

THETA RHO ZETA CHAPTER

The prospects for Theta Rho Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha, when school began, looked extremely black and the chances for its success seemed almost nil. There was a lack of members and pledging seemed to be considered among those things Poe referred to as "forgotten lore." It would have been a very dangerous thing to have attempted to predict its future. However, the beginning of the New Year saw the affiliation of this group and the local Alpha Sigma Upsilon. That fraternity, by union, gave Lambda Chi Alpha a much increased membership and greatly aided in the well being of Theta Rho Zeta.

A celebration of the affiliation took place on February 15th, in the form of a banquet. Among those present were members, a group representing the Alumni Association of Shreveport, and members of the faculty. On the following day, a few of these, Roy Montgomery, alumni advisor, and William Wainright, Traveling Secretary of Lambda Chi, went to Ruston to be the first initiated. The initiation ceremonies were performed by the Degree Team of the Louisiana Chapter, Theta Psi Zeta.

The Fall Semester found L. W. Head as President and James Pittman as Vice-President. Succeeding these officers in the Spring Semester were Fred McClanahan as President and Richard Norton as Vice-President. This is the third organization of which McClanahan has been President since school began in September. The first two were the Gentry and Alpha Sigma Upsilon.

There has been quite a change in the organization since the latter part of last year. The fraternity house no longer seems like a "Deserted Village," but is frequented by members and pledges daily. There is a marked improvement in the appearance of the house and grounds, and Lambda Chi Alpha is again becoming an active fraternity on the Centenary campus.

Among the Lambda boys are some who have proved themselves upon the football field. They are: W. T. Jacks, Robert Pyle, John Allums, W. S. Huston, and Gaines Norton. However, Lambda Chi Alpha also has representatives from other fields . . . Pre-Medical, Pre-Law, Pre-Theology, Physics, and Aviation.

An 'Alum' gives his advice.

The Gentry, recently organized non-fraternity group, has as its main objective the promotion, stimulation, and encouragement of student activities, among those men not affiliated with any social fraternity. As a brother organization to Aufait, it fills a three-year gap in our organizations.

The Gentry numbers among its members many student leaders prominent in campus affairs: Vice-President Russell Stewart who is also Editor of the Conglomerate, Student Manager of the Band, a member of Who's Who and Kollege Kapers. Other outstanding members include Val Borum, Alpha Sigma Chi, Pi Mu Sigma; Ray Goens, Secretary of Sophomore Class; Roy Mouser, Chairman of Religious Activities, Student Senate; John Woods, Debate Team, Student Senate.

BASKETBALL

The Maroon and White of Centenary was carried on the courts this past year by a bunch of athletes whose natural ability would delight the heart of any cage coach. Among the outstanding Gentlemen who played on the hardwood this year were Lurlin "Flash" Harmon, diminutive captain and spark-plug of the quintet; A. R. Jowers, Junior sharpshooter whose marksmanship made him high scorer for the past two years; Alex Penny, rangy forward and frequent offensive threat of the team; Michael Majcher, other forward whose scrappiness and accuracy made him a valuable man; and Melbourne Crawford, one of the most brilliant guards to ever wear the Maroon and White. These men composed the starting five but the Gents' reserves were the best in years. Heading these was big Ed Murphy, center and general utility man who saw a great deal of service; John Norwood, tallest man on the squad and a good man under the basket; Ed Hoynoski, who broke into the starting line-up late in the season and displayed a good eye for the basket; Martin Pfau, Bob Barrie, and Claude Teel who could always be depended on when needed.

Suffering the loss of only one man from the previous year, Captain Max Bowerman, the Gents cagers opened the season with only the brightest prospects in view. They opened the season with a 43-26 victory over Magnolia A. & M. With the green team of last year showing well due to last season's experience, the Maroon and White quintet took their second contest from Magnolia also and then closed their pre-Christmas campaign with a last quarter victory over the highly touted Loyola cagers.

WITH A WIN

While everyone else was enjoying their Christmas vacation, the Gentlemen cut their holidays short and struck out through the mid-west on their annual northern tour. Although they were undefeated up to this point, it was soon evident that the northern competition was a little too fast for them and the difference in the style of play was evidenced by the excessive fouls called against the Gents. In the first game, Centenary met Kentucky, Southeastern Conference champs of last year, and a 70-18 defeat was not unexpected. The rest of the tour, however, was equally disastrous because the Gents also lost the other five games on the trip. The last game was really a heart breaker as the Gents lost to Cape Giradeau Teachers by a 40-39 count.

On January 7, the Gents opened their S. I. A. A. and Louisiana Conference race with a brilliant 59-19 slaughter of Louisiana College in Shreveport. Captain Harmon and his team mates continued on their winning ways with a 44-37 victory over Louisiana Tech on Jan. 9th, but two nights later, they met their first defeat of the race at the hands of Tech in Ruston. This game proved a turning point in the race for the Gents because it started a slump from which it took ten games to recover. However, while losing ten games the Gentlemen were meeting some of the best teams in this part of the country. These included Henderson and Arkansas State from Arkansas and Stephen F. Austin from Texas. The last loss of this group was the most interesting. The night before the Gents had been overwhelmed by Southeastern, then the cellar team in the conference, and when they met Southwestern on January 31, the worst was to be expected.

Instead it turned out to be one of the most thrilling games played in the state during the season, because in the second overtime period, Southwestern dropped in a bucket just as the gun went off and eked out a 36-34 victory.

As February opened, the Gents won another at the expense of Tech, this time by a score of 36-33 and it looked as though the Gents had at last started to click.

CAPTAIN LURLIN HARMON, Guard

When they met the Normal Demons in Shreveport on February 7th, the Gents put up a great battle but the gods of fortune would not smile upon the Gentlemen and once again they dropped a two point decision, this time to the Demons sparked by their 6 ft. 9 in. center. After a second defeat at the hands of Southwestern, the Maroon and White color bearers took their second win from Louisiana College, and followed it by a revenge victory over Southeastern, but it was the last of the season for the Gents because they lost the final three games.

The final count showed that the Gents had won only eight out of twenty-nine games and even though the percentage is not so good, the number of two and three point losses to the best teams in the conference shows that the team was a victim of numerous tough breaks. To top off all of this, at the middle of the season an injury jinx stepped in and stayed until the end of the season.

All in all the Gentlemen had a good year on the court and the prospects for next year look fairly bright. Although Captain Flash Harmon is the only man lost by graduation, Mike Majcher, forward, and Ed Hoynoski, center, will not be able to return to school next year as Uncle Sam has engaged them for a year to help strengthen the United States Army.

ward; Melbourne Crawford, guard; Ed Murphy, center; John Norwood, center; Claude Teel, guard; and Martin Pfau, forward, will return to resume their old athletic careers. With these seasoned varsity men and with three or four good players, who have the extra height that is needed, coming up from the freshman ranks, Head Basketball Coach Elmer Smith should find a ready, willing and able group waiting for him to blow the whistle for practice at the start of the 1941-42 season.

Coach Buckner and his 1940-41
Freshmen Basketball Squad.

Under the guidance of Coach Norman Buckner, former Tulane great, the Junior Gents cage squad made a rather impressive showing this season as they not only served as varsity competition, but also played numerous games with local commercial clubs as well as other Freshmen teams throughout the state.

Possessing more height than Junior Gent squads have for several seasons, they used it to advantage and their games were unusually fast and furious. All the boys played good rugged ball and their spirit was impressive. Jud Thornton and Bo Whitten, two long and lanky freshmen, carried the brunt of the punishment with S. D. McConathy's play pushing them all the time, but the high score man was Gordon Brown whose one handed shots were nothing short of phenomenal. Two of the most spirited players on the Freshmen team were Durr and Hubbard, who turned in fine performances constantly.

All in all, the boys had a fine team and Coach Buckner is to be congratulated because from these Freshmen are going to come several first class players for future Gent teams.

After the sound and fury of elections died away last May 3rd, five new officers emerged victorious, and to them went the task of running student body affairs for 1940-41. To everyone's surprise, this group proved to be different from their predecessors—they had backbone, and were not afraid to show it.

Before school was out last year, the new officers had met and mapped a campaign to rejuvenate student government. With the opening of school in September, their plans were ready and they immediately opened an offensive, which resulted in a complete re-working of the constitution, and involved important changes in the method of selecting Student Senate members.

This done, they turned their cooperative attention to making the freshman rules mean something, and, under the capable leadership of Orientation Chairman Charles Knight, succeeded in doing so, capping the performance with the famous Frosh-Soph Tug of War.

All in all, the Student Body officers have done a good job—such a good job in fact that it will be hard for anyone to follow them.

Centenary's Student Senate started off the new year with a bang. During the summer the constitution was revised and a new plan of representation put into effect. Under this plan, the various dormitories, fraternal organizations, and each class was given one representative. In addition nine committee chairmen were appointed by the executive committee, and they became members of the Senate.

One of the first activities of the year was the Freshman-Sophomore tug of war on October 21, which climaxed the annual observance of freshman rules. This project was engineered by Charles Knight, freshman orientation chairman of the Senate.

Although hampered by a constantly changing membership, the Senate continued to hold semi-monthly meetings. Plans were made to sponsor a drive to obtain dancing on the campus, and many meetings were devoted to this task alone. Also in the Senate's program for the year was an aim for better student-faculty relationships, which was a brave thing to do.

Lack of something constructive to aim at left the Senate pretty much in the lurch, but all agree that the student leaders this year have shown more interest in student government than in several years, and have cleared the path for more student action in years to come.

As has been customary for the last three years, the big project of the year was the observance of Founders' Day on May 2. A gigantic picnic and political rally was planned for the day, and was enjoyed by all.

KOLLEGE KAPERS

Kollege Kapers, Centenary's traveling student variety show, went through its eight annual season in a blaze of glory, stopping off to ignite the home town between shows. The North Louisiana tour was one S. R. O. sign after another; an estimated 5,000 people saw the five shows on the tour, 2800 of these at Monroe alone, where the audience threatened to overflow onto the stage. Later in the season, a tour of the East Texas cities was made, equally as successful. Although the orchestra was weak, the cast made up for it with one top-flight vocalist after another. In particular, those two chanteuses par excellence, Betty Brewer and Peggy Fendley, left many a gasping, gibbering man when they sang. For the first time in all Kapers history, it had the privilege of introducing a new song—"If Ever You Leave," written by two Kaperites of previous years, Warren Blackwell and Virginia Rathbun. As usual, the eighth season was excellent, but the cast is already looking forward to next year.

Mrs. Clara Cox, hostess of the girl's dormitory, has a task of great responsibility and difficulty in creating a second home for the many out of town girls who attend Centenary; but that she accomplishes it with ease and grace is evident when one first opens the doors of charming Colonial Hall.

Number one leader of the dormitory this year was Paulyn Gill, who, in addition to her responsibilities as President, took on the extra duties of handling the funds of Chi Omega. She is also a member of Chi Sigma Nu, Student Senate, and the Bit and Bridle Club. Another prominent member who bids the campus goodbye this June is Audrie Fuller, Vice-President of the dormitory as well as of her sorority, Alpha Xi Delta. She is a member of the Maroon Jackets and Secretary-Treasurer of Pan-Hellenic. Sara Menefee, member of Zeta Tau Alpha, was responsible for the recording of the minutes of the Dormitory Council, and Dorothy Uttinger, member of Aufait, had charge of all money matters. In addition to these leaders the dormitory is well represented in Kollege Kapers, Student Senate, various honorary organizations and extra-curricula activities.

This year the dormitory held its annual Open House on December 6. Rotary Hall, the men's dormitory, was invited to participate in the evening's courtesies. As in past years Mrs. Mattie Plilar, Dietician, has served formal dinners on each holiday. These are always anticipated as occasions not to be forgotten soon by any of the girls.

The Cenhomec Club was organized in 1938 under the sponsorship of Miss Mary Lou Ware, Professor of Home Economics. The Club is made up of women being trained professionally. This organization has as its purpose to further the best interest of Home Economics, to develop women with higher ideals of sane living, with a deeper appreciation of the sanctity of the American home, and women with broader social and higher intellectual and cultural attainments.

Theme for this year's work was "Cues for You" with each program emphasis placed on intellectual, spiritual, ethical, and aesthetic poise. The work was so planned to give experiences that would develop genuine teamwork and promote friendship among its members, provide an opportunity for its members to carry responsibility and thereby help to develop good leadership and intelligent fellowship, to provide social, business, and professional experiences through the various aspects of social life, and to encourage the co-operation with other local clubs and with state and national groups.

This year the club was represented at the annual fall meeting of Home Economics Clubs held at Natchitoches, Louisiana, by four club delegates. On March 15, six members attended the spring club meeting held at Ruston, Louisiana. Margaret Hugon will represent the club at the national convention in Chicago, Illinois, to be held June 21-27.

The local chapter of the W. A. A., an organization for women interested in athletics, was inaugurated at Centenary under the sponsorship of Mrs. Davidson, in the year 1924-25. Among all its years this one has proven to be the organization's most successful.

Co-eds draw their bows.

Starting the year's program off with a "bang" was the impressive Candle Lighting Service at which about 68 members were initiated. Ping pong started the tournaments off and winter came on, badminton, golf, swimming, basketball, skating, volley ball, horseback riding, and archery continued through the program.

Throughout the year, the members enjoyed numerous and varied social activities. Among the most enjoyable outings were: night at Camp Margaret, hike and picnic, scavenger hunt, Christmas party, skating party, sailing party, and bicycle ride.

Each year the W. A. A. sponsors a Stunt Night, May Day, and attends a play day. The Stunt Night, held around April Fool's Day, with each campus organization presenting a skit, the best of which receives a prize, a loving cup filled with candy kisses.

Golf team tries to look glamorous. Pretty girls, habits, and horses pose.

The May Day Festival is celebrated by all members of Centenary College with representatives from colleges of the Ark-La-Tex area. On this occasion the May Queen is crowned and an elaborate and colorful pageant is presented for the queen and her court. The annual play day, which was started by Centenary in the year 1938-39, is held in the spring with one college inviting other Louisiana colleges to attend.

To bring a joyful ending to the year's program, the W.A.A holds its annual banquet. At this time letters and awards are presented and plans made for the summer camping trip. To miss a trip to Camp Albert Pike in the Ouachita Mountains is a great loss, for it is the most eagerly awaited and longest remembered of all the many W.A.A. activities.

This year the W.A.A. sponsored a Tennis Club which showed great progress during the year. Hessie Gaston was elected president with Marie King as vice-president and Beverly Herndon as secretary-treasurer. The tennis tournament was carried on with great enthusiasm.

Alpha Sigma Chi, honorary chemistry fraternity, under the able guidance of its sponsors, Dr. Entrikin and Dr. Thayer, has made great steps toward increasing student interest in chemistry. Membership in this society has soared to new heights in the past year, and substantial steps have been taken to increase the ability and importance of the society locally by affiliating with the American Chemical Society.

The activities of the society in the past year have included scientific movies, industrial speakers and talks by members on subjects of special interest. Dr. Livingston of the Du Pont Company spoke in chapel under the sponsorship of the club.

Centenary was represented at the semi-annual American Chemical Society meeting in Saint Louis, Missouri, by Dr. Entrikin and several of his assistants, in April.

The members have at all times attempted to convey the proper physical conception of a chemist to the lay mind. A man smoking a foul smelling pipe, drinking strong coffee and eager to converse on any subject at any place.

It is generally agreed that Alpha Sigma Chi has had a prosperous and active year while looking forward to the next with anticipation and assurance of increasing its eminence and activity.

Organized in 1925 on the Centenary campus, Pi Mu Sigma devotes itself solely to science. The meetings held on the second and fourth Thursday of every month, are forums for the discussion of current problems in the medical world. On these occasions prominent Shreveport doctors or Centenary graduates address the group and answer questions of scientific interest. Membership is limited to those pre-medical students who have completed two semester courses in science with a minimum C plus average and have the unanimous ballot of the group. Each new initiate is required to present a 1,500-word thesis on some phase of medicine of current interest to the group. The new member also undergoes an arduous and solemn ritual as part of his acceptance into the fraternity. Plans for this year include the annual reunion in the spring when former pre-med students return to their Alma Mater to recount to their old school mates their experiences in the medical world.

With Miss Warters as the active sponsor and Charles Knight as the capable president, the group continues to devote its entire effort to the acquisition of medical knowledge, the removal of false ideas and beliefs, and the furtherance of the ideals upon which the organization was founded.

The Centenary Geological Society was organized last year by the geology majors with the help of Professor W. E. Wallace, Jr. Immediately the organization became one of the most aggressive on the campus. Even before the club had been organized, the major students had been able to finance several field trips to points of interest in this area. The longest trip ever made by a scholastic society on Centenary Campus was made last year—the trip covered more than 1000 miles and included areas in three states. A small trailer, bearing the letters C. G. S. returns from these trips with many interesting relics found along the way. A geologist's hammer is usually given as a prize to the one who is successful in finding the most unusual specimens.

The membership has steadily increased since the beginning of this school year, and with the additional facilities afforded by the new science building the Geological Society is looking forward to even more outstanding achievements. Plans are now being devised for a trip to Birmingham, Alabama, to be made this semester. All of the expenses, transportation, and necessary equipment are taken care of by the members. In a newspaper article of last year the Society was referred to as "the most traveled organization in any Louisiana college" and was further given the title of "The Flying Geology Class."

As the school year of 1940-41 draws to a close, the French Club of Centenary College completes its thirteenth successful year. Under the sponsorship of Dr. E. L. Ford, the club has grown in size, activities and prestige.

Meeting once a month at the homes of the various members, the group is entertained by guest speakers and entertainers, the theme of the programs this year was the French in Louisiana. The meetings are carried on in French, games are played, and refreshments are served. In addition to these monthly meetings, the club sponsored a well known French film, "The Harvest," which has run in New York for several months.

Under the capable leadership of Clint Teacle, president; Elizabeth Pabody, vice-president; and Joe Stephens, secretary-treasurer, the club expects to accomplish a great deal more in the few remaining months. The last meeting of the year will be the annual French party, to which senior French students of the high schools will be invited.

The Spanish Club continues to function as one of Centenary's foremost departmental organizations. The second Wednesday of each month is the regular meeting day and at this time the members enjoy a practical use of the Spanish Language. At these meetings a program is presented, bringing in as much of the true Spanish atmosphere as possible. One of the most interesting of these was a Question Bee led by the Program Chairman, Lucy Bettis. At each meeting Spanish songs are sung.

In addition to these monthly meetings, the Spanish Club sponsors the annual Chapel Program on Pan-American Day. On this occasion talks are presented by the members of the Spanish Club with the purpose of establishing a stronger bond between the countries.

At the end of the year the Club entertains with its annual Spanish Club Banquet where hot tamales, tortillas, and other typical dishes are served. For the success of this banquet as well as for its other ventures, the organization owes much to the sponsorship of Professor White and Mrs. Morwood who have done much toward furthering the interest and appreciation of all things Spanish.

Since the year of its founding Chi Sigma Nu has proved itself to be one of the most outstanding and active of the honorary groups.

In the past year a visit was made to the Shreveport Trade school to acquaint the members with the various phases of state education. Many social affairs were given—among them a luncheon in honor of the new members and a skating party.

The membership is limited to 20, therefore, there are strict requirements for initiation. Members of Chi Sigma Nu must possess a "B" average and a vital interest in their chosen work. It was founded in 1937 by five future teachers who wished to extend their scholastic endeavor in a definite direction. The purpose of this organization is to promote high standards of scholarship among students of education who contemplate teaching as a profession and to foster an interest in contemporary educational problems.

The monthly meetings are held in the homes of the members and are marked for their interest. At each of these meetings some capable educator addressed the group. Chief among these have been Mr. E. W. Jones and Miss Mary Bains.

Chi Sigma Nu was fortunate enough to secure as the new faculty advisor, Professor Middlebrooks, and under his supervision plans to undertake many worthwhile projects have been developed.

Under the capable guidance of President Lewis Finnell, the Commerce Club enjoyed a successful year, moving forward rapidly to keep in step with the swiftly changing world.

The purpose of the organization has been to keep the students of commerce, economics and finance in touch with conditions in the field of business. This has been accomplished through programs bringing to the organization prominent business men of this community, who have presented the practical phases of business. These men have come at the invitation of Professor Robert S. See, Head of the Department of Commerce and former President of the Advertising Club of Shreveport, who continued to inspire the organization in an advisory capacity. Among the speakers who addressed the club this year were Mr. Harry Viser, prominent Certified Public Accountant of Shreveport, who spoke to the club for the fourth successive year; Mr. A. L. Gwinn, Sales and Advertising Manager of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, presented an instructive talk on salesmanship to the group and accompanied his speech with the presentation of a film; Mr. P. C. Cowden, local Certified Public Accountant and Mr. Francis Durham, Centenary graduate and Certified Public Accountant.

A project advanced by the club this year was the establishment of a departmental library. This was successfully accomplished largely due to donations by Mr. Ward Delaney, Shreveport business man, and the Advertising Club of Shreveport.

The Ministerial Club was founded by Dr. George Sexton on October 6, 1921. Its present sponsors are Dean and Mrs. R. E. Smith. The meetings are held every other Friday at which time some minister or layman appears on the program.

To be a member of the Ministerial Club one must participate in the social and religious programs on the campus, in the city and elsewhere; must be a ministerial student or studying for some definite work in the field of the church and religion

In past years, the Ministerial Club has functioned as an organized group to promote religious activity on the campus and in the dormitory. Since the Committee on religious Activities of the Student Senate is serving in this capacity, the club has continued as a fraternal or professional group, emphasizing that its members cooperate with other clubs.

Among the honorary members of the Ministerial Club are President Cline, Dean Hardin, Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs. Dr. A. M. Serex, and all Methodist pastors of Shreveport.

One of the club's alumni, the Reverend George Pearce, has been chosen head of the Broadmoor Methodist Church which has its tentative location in the College Chapel.

The thirty Centenary co-eds from Shreveport, ten from each sorority, that are juniors or seniors, make up the Cen Coe Club, the only inter-sorority organization. The Cen Coe Club entered its fifth successful year with a formal at the opening of school to introduce its new members.

Each girl wearing the little triangular emblem of the order, bearing her name and the inevitable Maroon and White, pledges herself to uphold the purposes and ideals of the organization, to create a more friendly understanding and cooperation between the girl's Greek letter groups. Friendly "get togethers" are held monthly and in this social atmosphere problems are amiably discussed and settled.

The Cen Coes chief purpose in life is having a good time and they are eminently successful. Some of the most delightful activities of the year were picnics, dances, Christmas luncheon and spring program formal.

Alpha Sigma Pi is an honorary scholastic fraternity founded in 1931 by Mrs. A. R. Campbell, Dean of Women. Freshmen of high scholastic achievement are eligible to election into the fraternity, with active membership extending through the Sophomore year.

As quoted from the Constitution, "The object of this fraternity shall be the stimulation, development, and recognition of scholarship and those elements of character that make scholarship effective for good." The motto is "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." The pin is in the form of a small gold crescent with sapphire enamel, embossed with the letters of the fraternity.

The three Greek letters, meaning: Character, Attainment, and Growth, form the basis for stimulation of progressive work by the members.

Psi Delta Chi, Centenary's honorary psychology society was organized in 1937. The society was an outgrowth of a mental hygiene society created through the effort of Dr. Young, Professor of Psychology at L. S. U., and is now sponsored by Dr. F. S. Rankin, Professor of Psychology at Centenary.

The present society consists of members who have taken courses in the Psychology department and who have shown their interest and ability in this field. The purpose of the club is to supplement the work of the department as well as to give the members and others an opportunity to hear successful men who have demonstrated the practical application of Psychology in their respective professions. Some of the outstanding speakers heard this year were Mr. Harry Martzell, Dr. R. B. DeLee, Dr. Edgar Galloway, Dr. D. L. Kerlin, Mr. George W. Hardy, Jr.

Each spring the club sponsors a visit to the Central Louisiana Hospital for the Insane at Pineville, Louisiana, in order that the members may have the opportunity to make personal observations of some typical insane cases. The regular meetings are held at the Student Center on the Campus. Two of our past meetings were held at the Alpha Xi Delta Sorority and the Kappa Sigma Fraternity Houses. A luncheon was given this spring for the new members who were initiated.

After almost passing out the picture for the lack of members during the first part of the year, when only five junior members from last year were held over, Alpha Chi gained in strength and prestige at mid-term, when it initiated eleven new members.

The year was one of unusual activity for the organization, which is composed of junior and senior undergraduates who excel scholastically, and who are usually content to meet to initiate. Under the vigorous leadership of George Hearne, the chapter sent delegates to Nacogdoches, Texas, for the national convention, elected Gilbert Hetherwick president for next year, sponsored the usual chapel program, and gave the usual leather, gold-engraved notebook to the most outstanding freshman of the year. Alpha Chi stands as a constant reminder to all Alpha Sigma Pis to uphold their high scholastic records throughout their four years, and to others to raise their grades, in order to qualify for a bid to this most honorable of honorary organizations.

COLONIAL HALL RECEPTION

The Women's Club of Centenary feted the girls of Colonial Hall, Glenn Cottage and Pine Cottage with its annual open house held in Colonial Hall on December 6, 1940. This was the most brilliant affair of the year for the out-of-town residents.

The club's outstanding project of the year was the renovation of the College Chapel, giving it a new white enamel coat and maroon draperies for the stage and white ones for the windows.

Secretary Menefee, President Gill and Vice-President Fuller dress up for the occasion.

making the headlines

The Spring of 1941 will long be remembered by the Science Departments of the college, for in March the new Jackson Hall was formally dedicated to human values.

Dedication ceremonies for the new building were held on Wednesday, March 12, in a special program held in the Chapel. Speaker of the day was Dr. Arthur H. Compton, winner of the Nobel Prize for Physics in 1927. He is shown at the right with Dr. Cline and Dr. Lowance, while at the bottom of the page is a view of Centenary's new Jackson Hall.

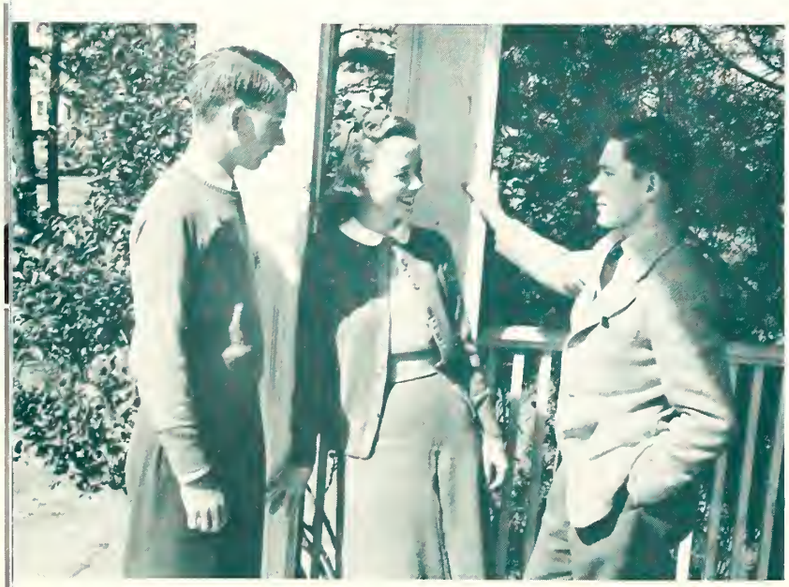
Debate and Oratory



The three stars of Debate and Oratory, Joe Stephens, Helen Shaw, and John Woods.

Great strides were made this year in debate work at Centenary. The teams, composed of John Woods and Robert Webster, Fred Hughens and Joe Stephens emerged victorious in many debates with colleges from all over the South.

Centenary also won its share of oratorical honors. Joe Stephens won first place in the Louisiana Peace Association Oratorical Contest with Helen Shaw winning second place in the women's division. John Woods placed third in a field of 27 contestants from ten states at the Louisiana speech tournament held at Louisiana State Normal College.

Under the sponsorship of Professor Bryant Davidson, a Debate Club was formed with John Woods as its first president. The aim of this club is to focus attention of the student body on public speaking, better speaking and debating.

The faculty committee composed of Professors Davidson and Overdyke, Dr. Steger, Mrs. A. R. Campbell, and Dr. Morehead contributed greatly to the success of the teams, and the club.

Chosen by the C.A.A. as one of the nation's colleges to offer a course in aeronautics, Centenary has successfully passed its second year in this category. With the United States Government asking for more and more aviators each day, a greatly increased interest in the course has kept the instructors busy every minute since school opened last fall.

For those who desire to be the future pilots of the nation, rigid physical examinations must be passed before they can continue upon their anticipated careers.

The Instructor shows Robert Lary how to do pylon eights.

Future Pilots

Steger, Dowling, and Magers pose with one of the planes . . . Part of the group enrolled in the C.A.A. course.

After the physical requirements have been taken care of, difficult tests in ground work must be passed before any actual flying is attempted.

Since this is the second year that Aviation has been offered at Centenary, a more advanced course has been offered for those who have completed the initial stage of the procedure, and, under the supervision of Instructor Claude Hammel, promises to produce some fair pilots.

PROSPECTUS

As we go to press Centenary's prospects for a very successful baseball season look very good. The 1940 season was the most successful one that Centenary has ever had and with a majority of the players returning this year, everything seems to be bright and rosy.

Last year Centenary took baseball seriously for the first time and put it in the category of a major sport and then went on to win the Louisiana Inter-Collegiate baseball championship.

Another major development in the diamond sport at Centenary is the new baseball field which has just been completed. It is situated next to the football grounds and promises to be an inducement for better attendance than the former practice of playing all home games at the Texas League Park.

Cook, Burnette, and Brown choose pictures for Yoncopin.

"This one is the best for the Athletic Division."

You are now turning the pages of the 21st volume of The Yoncopin. Your complete satisfaction is the goal which the Co-Editors hope they have attained. Serving as the theme of the book are the three seasons, in which the school events are taken as they occurred. In the design of this book we were aware of the desire for a change and have altered this edition accordingly.

For the first time in its history, The Yoncopin has had the benefit of two artists, Co-Editors Ethel Cady and William Graham.

Following precedent, The Yoncopin office, at the first of the year, had a lure to those journalistically inclined. A change occurred, however, as the work progressed, the staff dwindled and the work was left to the Co-Editors with the help of one or two members.

Yoncopin Staff at Work . . .

All the staff reports on picture day.

Afternoon after afternoon, Ethel and Bill could be found working away, but not in vain, for the yearbook with a seasonal theme and cartoons by Graham as sub-divisions, promises to be another All-American Yoncopin.

We have strived to present as nearly as is possible, a mechanically perfect book. However, the facts have not been distorted, thus sacrificing a truthful presentation for perfection in make-up.

Did the staff work like this all year?

The finances of the book were handled by Walter B. Jacobs, Jr., who has been a most capable Business Manager. Assisting Walter was Helen Dwire, who proved to be most worthy. The work on the yearbook was again under the supervision of Professor Robert See.

Business Manager, Jacobs, checks his file.

We hope that we have pleased you with our efforts and we hope that we have shown all that is important, never over-emphasizing any one activity.

If, in later years, you can glance through this volume of the Yoncopin with a feeling of pleasure and think back of "those dreamy college days," we shall consider this a task well done.

Miss Azalie Webb glances over the 1941 Yoncopin of which she is the sponsor. Beside her is the cup which she has won and that now is the permanent possession of her sorority, Zeta Tau Alpha, due to the fact that they have won the contest for three consecutive years.

Sponsor of The Azalie Webb, Ann Thibodeaux, and Helen Dwire get up bright and early to meet the "Southern Belle." This is the train on which the first and second place winners will make their awarded trips.

In the annual Sponsor Contest the winner is decided by the amount of money turned in by each girl, and whoever presents the most cash for yearbook ads, signatures, annuals, and padded covers sold, receives the award. Thus it is an honor not easily won and possession of it indicates plenty of hard work.

This year, the winner received either an all-expense spring cruise to Havana, aboard one of the liners of the White fleet, or a trip to New York City. The runner-up was awarded an all-expense trip to New Orleans.

The winner this year was Miss Azalie Webb. This 1941 race has been especially interesting to the organizations because of the fact that the Zetas were out to win the trophy for the third time in a row, thus obtaining permanent possession of it, and they did. The runners-up were the Chi Omegas who were represented by Ann Thibodeaux.

Yoncopin

Dr. Cline, surrounded by the fairer sex, seems to enjoy himself.

Founder's Day, May 2nd, is indeed a day of celebration at Centenary College. Empty classrooms, forgotten textbooks, the deserted campus and the forlorn Student Center bear witness to this fact each year.

Early in the morning, the entire student body, and as many professors as are able to stand the long hike, start out "en masse" for Betty Virginia park. There, everybody lets the proverbial hair down and turns loose all of their heretofore well-saved energy.

Our Annual Founder's

After lunch has been taken care of, the big crowd gathers under the shade of the trees for a song festival, led by Alvin C. "Cheezy" Voran, Student Counselor . . . But, to many, the big picnic lunch is the main event of the entire celebration . . . One of the more important stints of the day is in the morning when such crafty politicians as Helen Shaw, Bill Steger, and Joe Elston get on the stump to ballyhoo and bull the prospective voters into submission . . . Part of the group that braved an early morning march to Betty Virginia Park.

One of the outstanding events of the day, aside from eating, is the political speeches and rallies for various prospective student body officers. Indeed, the professional politician might well learn some tricks of the trade from these amateur "stumpers." Nothing is overlooked in their diligent search for anticipated votes.

The other outstanding feature of the day is the faculty-senior baseball game. For comedy, drama, and thrills, even the best movie house could not outdo this contingent occurrence of things. To see your favorite "prof.," whom you had always figured as athletically dead as the mackerel, dashing around "a la Babe Ruth" is good enough for anybody's money.

As we go to press, plans for a bigger and better Founder's Day Celebration are being completed by the Student Senate. To climax this day of all days, several events have been added this year which promise to be the highlights of that day. It so happens that a home baseball game between Centenary and Louisiana Tech has been scheduled for the afternoon of May 2nd. This will help greatly to climax the annual event but the new innovation that will really make a perfect ending is the Founder's Day Dance which has been planned by the Student Senate to take place that night. So, all in all, the 116th birthday party of Centenary College promises to be the best one on record.

Day Celebration

May Fete

One of the most picturesque traditions at Centenary is the ceremony devoted to the crowning of the Queen of the May Fete on the first day of the month which ushers in the dreamy days of early summer. Each year a faculty committee selects four girls—one from each social organization and one from the non-fraternity group—and from this number the students select their Queen. The coronation is held amid great ceremony and an elaborate pageant is presented for the entertainment of the Queen and her court. This May, Grace Ingersoll will reign and Lucy Bettis will serve as Maid of Honor to a court composed of junior and senior girls. The theme of the historical sequel to be given this May is based on the development of democracy in England and America, entitled, "Heritage of Democracy."

Presented annually by the W.A.A. as a climax to their athletic activity, the May Fete attempts to portray or interpret some major aspect of life in America through sports. Last year Beatrice Carlton reigned as Queen and her Maid of Honor was Grace Julian. The festival had as its theme, "Louisiana Under Five Flags." The history of the state was depicted in colorful dances and tableaux, narrated by Helen Shaw.

. . . and How They Were Chosen

This year the annual staff was exceedingly fortunate in securing as judge of their annual Beauty Contest, the noted Parisian portrait painter and artist, Jean Despujols. Without a doubt the best known modern French artist to American collectors and critics, Mr. Despujols is on a "drifting tour" of the Americas for the duration of the war.

Narrowing down the large field of beauties, whom the students had nominated, to eleven young ladies, he then picked the leading beauty and five others to appear in the college annual. The final eleven damsels who were chosen are pictured below with Monsieur Despujols. They are, seated, left to right: Dorothy Robinson, Eilleen Maynard, Kathryn Moreneaux, Mary Marie Hogg, and Felice Hicks. Standing, left to right, are: Norman Robertson, Grace Ingersoll, Joanna Glassell, Jimmye Brown, Camille Hendrick, and Beverly Herndon.

. . . but the end of the year belongs entirely to the seniors. Oh, bow down brother, bow down

Above are the two honor students of the Class of 1940—Grace Julian and John Koelemay . . . Dr. Cline halts the speaker and directs everyone to the Chapel as the rain begins . . . An honorary LL. D. degree is conferred upon Mr. E. Weldon Jones . . . Dr. Cline, Dean Hardin, and Mrs. Campbell are kept busy on the Chapel stage giving degrees.

Co-Editor Ethel Cady and Business Manager Walter Jacobs present the plaque to Bill Steger, President of the Senior Class.

AN OPEN LETTER

May 1, 1941.

Dear Fellow-Students:

The Yoncopin staff of 1941, ever on the initiative, has started something new this year which they hope that future staff members will continue in the years to come. That is, the presentation of a huge plaque to the senior class each year.

This plaque will contain the pictures of all of the members of that particular class and, after being formally presented to the president of the class, is to be hung in some significant place in the Student Union Building.

With this hopeful thought in mind, we put away our scissors, paste, and rickety old typewriter and close up the battered office in which we have worked so industriously during this glorious year of 1940-41.

Wishing you the best of luck . . . always.

THE STAFF.

Elaborate Electioneering.

CLASS ELECTIONS

Class elections at Centenary are usually boring. All the available members of the class manage to meet and elect the persons nominated by the clique which controls the majority of votes at that time. 1940 elections proved to be no exception to this rule.

When all the dust had cleared away, the three upper classes had elected three K.A.'s, one Kappa Sig, one non-fraternity man, two Chi Omegas, and five Zetas. Notably griped were the power-loving, but seldom powerful Alpha Xi's, and, totally lacking in representation, the slowly dying Lambdas.

Just before Christmas, the freshman class elections were ordered to be held by secret ballot instead of class meeting. The results somewhat atoned for the prominence of Zetas in the other three classes, when three Chi O's and a lone K.A. were elected to fill the post. Notably griped were the Kappa Sigmas, who had put on a rooting-tooting campaign, with sound-trucks, posters, high-pressure men, and other professional apparatus.

In mid-February, all was just about forgiven, and people were again asking each other just who were the class officers.

HOMECOMING QUEEN

One of the most interesting elections at Centenary is always the one for Homecoming Queen. In this, the first "big" election of the year, the drawing power of the various sororities is accurately measured for future months.

Sometimes, in past years, the results have been a complete surprise to the general public. This year, the wise guys on the campus were asking each other, "Who will the Zetas run?" For so many consecutive years that they have lost track of the actual number, the Zetas' pride and joy has been their unbroken line of Homecoming Queens. In 1940, the man-on-the-campus felt sorry for the ZETA's, because he saw no candidate outstanding.

But the surprise outcome of the year named Prexy Dorothy Robinson of that organization as the 1940 Homecoming Queen over three close rivals who threatened to go on top at any minute. No dreamer, Queen Dottie at once realized that her success was due as much to the loyalty her organization commands among the ambitious swains in the land as to her personal magnetism. Quiet, demure, of necessity studious, she won the hearts of those who had never known her before with her regal bearing and appearance on that black Homcoming Day, and capped with a glorious crown her meteoric rise to prominence in campus affairs, which began almost a year before, when she was elected president of Zeta.

SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS

The school year of 1940-41 has been a hot one for the six national fraternities and sororities on the campus. They, individually or collectively, have been "on the spot" almost constantly since school began.

Fall rushing started things off with a major revelation—people weren't interested in fraternities any more. Organization heads, shocked into getting together and comparing notes, found that a dozen or so choice morsels, both male and female, not only had not joined a fraternity, but had announced their intention not to do so. It was a situation without parallel in the history of Greek organizations on the campus.

From that moment on, catastrophe followed catastrophe. First, Aufait started rushing (and don't you think for a minute they didn't) the girls who failed to pledge a sorority and walked off with a fair number of girls, who contrary to the previous reputation of the group, had looks, money, and a ready line.

By far the most interesting story of the year concerns one Fred McClanahan and his advisor, Richard Norton. No Greek, McClanahan early in the year organized a somewhat diverse group of disgruntled anti-Greeks called "The Gentry." No anti-Greek, he failed to gain the confidence of the group, which ousted him some two months later.

SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS (cont'd)

Meanwhile, smooth-talking, handsome Norton had pledged Kappa Sigma, and had been named president of the pledge group. One day, without so much as a word, Norton and some half-a-dozen followers marched out of Kappa Sigma, much to the amazement of the campus, who had marked him as one of the leaders of tomorrow. Quite naturally, McClanahan and Norton joined forces, organized the first local fraternity on the campus in several years, and called it Alpha Sigma Upsilon, for some obscure reason. So quietly and quickly was this done, that napping national fraternity officers on the campus were unaware of its existence for almost a week.

SOCIAL ORGANIZATIONS (cont'd)

Instantly on the alert, these Phi Delt-SAE-DEKE-baiting men rushed around madly for two whole days, making it plainly known that the presence of a fourth large national fraternity on the campus was not to be tolerated by them. Before a week had gone by, their fears were allayed. From Dallas came word that the group which had scared the daylights out of K.A. and Kappa Sigma, would in February be initiated en masse into the local chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha, which had been dying a natural death for two years. With the promise of fresh blood, LCA again took its rightful position in campus affairs, and Greek met Greek in the joints, friendly again.

January brought still a third fright to the Greeks, this one a major riot. From the office was issued an ominous document, purporting to be the regulations for social functions. Up in arms went the Greeks, but with less success than the ones fighting in Greece. Tongue-in-cheek, with a nous verrons attitude, they submitted amendments they desired. Flatly rejected in all save one instance, they came back. Impetuous ones talked darkly of revolution, succeeded in dancing in the SUB one cold Friday morning, despite warnings of expulsion. Back to classes went the Greeks, but January has not been forgotten. A major riot is still in the offing.

FOOTBALL

The team was all set for big things this year. In a pre-season broadcast, husky Jim Campbell summed up the situation this way: "Things got so bad last year I couldn't even get a ride to town." And Big Jim wanted some rides this year.

But the Fates seemed to have ruled differently. From the minute Hardin-Simmons was assured of victory in September until the minute ten games later when Tech was in a similar position in a still hotly debated contest, the Gentlemen tasted victory just three times. Two of the schools beaten were from St. Louis—which led the man-in-the-stands to yell, "Aren't there any more schools up there we can play?" Southwestern of Memphis was again a casualty from the Shreveport standpoint.

Meanwhile, on the losing side, fans chalked up big scores, little scores, medium size scores, all spelling defeat for the Maroon and White. By the boards went T. C. U., Rice, Arizona, Normal, Texas Tech, Louisiana Tech, and Hardin-Simmons. Lack of reserves in key positions, lack of discipline in the squad, and an abundance of dissatisfaction from coaches, fans, and players alike, combined to make the '40 season pretty much of a flop.

BASKETBALL

Victory-hungry fans started patting the members of the Centenary basketball team on the back about October. "We know we'll be on the winning side when YOU start playing," they said. But they were to be again disappointed.

After a fine start locally, the annual Northern tour reddened the faces of the boosters, as they read of scores which sounded like stock market quotations in boom times. Then, back home, a flashy quint smothered Louisiana College 59-19 to start the Conference race. Enthusiasm ran high. This was quickly followed by the annual slump, during which the team lost a game to every school in the Conference save one. Spirits ran low. Even basketball teams, it seems, get the reds. The season's work was worth complimenting. Although they didn't win every time, they scared the daylights out of the league leaders time and time again. And still, they didn't do as well as one would expect for a team as experienced as they were. Centenary's basketball fortunes were still so-so.

SOLDIER BOYS

"The National Guard band hasn't been called out since the last World War." With this assurance, Warrant Officer Orin Lincoln Igou collected a band for the 204th Coast Artillery (AA) last spring. "Just think of it," his spiel ran, "you get paid for drilling, and a free two-week vacation at Pensacola in the summer."

Lured, some 15 Centenary students signed. Things went fine; the checks came in on time, the two weeks at Camp Beauregard, while a little removed from the sunny shores of Florida, still were worth the while.

And then came the President's order, which stated that the 204th would be required to spend at least one year in training beginning in January. Suddenly shocked were Igou and men. Amid shouts and tears of mingled rejoicing and wailing they left in January for a year. Igou was with his men, although he could have been deferred. It seems the pay in the army was more than in the Centenary Music School.

BAND AND MAROON JACKETS

A shortage of home games left the band and Maroon Jackets without much room to shine in during the 1940 football season. This was no great loss, since these organizations had not much to show off.

Weaker than last year, still with no swing tunes, the band wandered to and fro aimlessly in its organization. Director Igou, full well knowing he would have to leave in January, did his best to show his charges off, but the breaks were against him -- the solo trumpet player gave him fits.

BAND AND MAROON JACKETS (cont'd)

Highlight of the band's year was the Rice trip, which went off without mishap, much to the disgust of the more bloodthirsty enrollees. Somewhat less encouraging was the bus trip to Natchitoches for the ill-starred Normal game, which was enlivened by Blind Tom's fondness for I. W. Harper. Once it had arrived, the band had to take to the field while the customers filed in, to practice their stunt, with the result that when it was performed at the half, the same customers showed their indifference by ignoring it.

Innovation for the better was total omission of the band sweetheart election, which legally left last year's sweetheart, Lorraine O'Roark, still in the position. The situation was not begrudged by any band member we could find.

KOLLEGE KAPERS

Doctor S. D. Morehead is a very unusual man. His talents run from the deepest mazes of economic thought to the picking of female singers for Kollege Kapers who make the men sigh. This year was no exception and its crop of full-busted chanteuses outshone all previous seven years of Kapers history.

No financial fool, Dr. Morehead makes the show pay its own way, too. Aside from the many individual shows at neighboring cities, towns, and hamlets, Kapers splurged this year and had two tours—the regular North Louisiana tour, and an additional East Texas tour. It was just one big blaze of glory, for men, women, and children, alike, giggled at the play, roared at Flournoy and Achee, started their adrenalin running when Peg Fendley and Betty Brewer sang, swayed with dancer Rosemary Neal, babied Biddie Boddie, and sat in profound awe at the swell singing of the Singsomble and the rich notes of Billy Bradford and Cheesy Voran.

The 1941 show was a swell show, It packed them in, fed their entertainment taste buds well, and turned them away until next year, when another show will be there to show up the 1941 version.

Of particular note is singer Betty Brewer, whose luscious larynx poured forth the kind of singing that made gibbering maniacs of strong men, and left women half-admiring, half-jealous. Only a sophomore, Bet's future seems to be rosiest of all the '41 krew, and proved again that "Doc sure can pick 'em."

WHY should your home be furnished like a carbon copy of many you have seen before . . . and will see again? There's no reason why it should . . . particularly if your quest for individuality brings you to Hemenway-Johnson's. ● For here is a store that is convinced of the importance of your personality . . . and the personality of your home. Here is a store with the decorative talent, the knowledge of period style, the 43 years of rich experience . . . which will help you furnish your home in a manner as exclusive as your signature! ● To do this, a store must of course offer a variety of furnishings not to be found in the average establishment. A store must have a dash of daring —tempered by good taste. A store must have a flair for style—plus the courage of its convictions. You'll find Hemenway-Johnson's have these things. ● You do not pay a penny premium for this distinction . . . for every piece is competitively priced. And our "NEW" EASY TERMS make it a simple matter to express your own personality in your home . . . whether you are shopping for a single coffee table, or a houseful of furniture. ● Step through this doorway to the unusual . . . 919 Texas Avenue!

HERE'S HOW!

May any 1942 survey of the Class of '41 show that every Centenary grad has a Ford or a Mercury, a job or a clientele, and either good health or money enough to be comfortably indisposed.

STUDENT SENATE

From the end of the picnic last May 2nd after all the candidates and their managers had promised everything from optional classes to ice cream with every registration, until September, things were quietly seething in the realm of student government. For the newly-elected officers had some hot ideas they were anxious to try out, and they made it known that they thought themselves a little different from student officers of previous years. They had promised action, and action they proposed to give.

So when September came around, the first Conglomerate screamed, "Sweeping Student Senate Changes Proposed," and the lid was off. Keynote in the new program was a more representative scheme of membership; this they proposed to do by allotting the membership by campus oganizations. By October, the plan had been adopted by the student body, and the senate met, full of vigor and enthusiasm.

But the thing that the new officers had not foreseen was the lack of power that was theirs. Everything they tried to do met with opposition either financially or administratively or internally. So, hampered with an ever-changing membership, and lack of something to do, the Student Senate found itself in the same position that its predecessors had been—in the lurch.

But we found that we hadn't reckoned with "Wild Bill" Steger, "Rounder" Hearne, "Gertrude" Maynard, and the other big-wigs, when we thought the Senate was licked. Among its accomplishments (?) of the year were the Frosh-Soph tug-of-war, discussion of the honor system, and the annual Founder's Day picnic.

So the Senate asserted itself this year, for the first time, and at least laid the groundwork for some fine future student government in years to come.

The march on Houston.

THE CITY-ON-THE-BAYOU

For the second consecutive year, the official student body football trip led Centenary students to Houston, where the Gentlemen, it was rumored, played Rice.

Surprisingly enough, the 1940 trip was a very quiet one. The train trip both down and returning looked more like a tired house party than a football trip. Aside from an occasional pair of loaded dice, and a funny smelling coke bottle or two, all actions were above suspicion.

It seems, rather, that all the fun was had in the city itself. Those South Main street joints came in for their share of the sucker-money, and the tenth floor of the Texas State Hotel saw some scenes that would make a Kappa Sigma blush. The elevator operators are reported to have held a convention on that floor, with mouths wide open, and eyes popping.

As usual, Centenary Gentlemen had trouble with Aggies down for the week-end, who insisted on taking over the girls they had been led by some strange reason to believe had come down to see them in the first place.

But, as is customary, the trip went down in history as a very uneventful episode in the lives of the three hundred who dared make it.

Which is the sucker?

FROSH-SOPH TUG OF WAR

The Student Senate has always had one problem it had never before been able to solve. It was how to end the freshman rules in a dignified manner, without letting it seem that they just petered out.

This year the problem was solved, and a new tradition established. Credit goes to the Senate's Freshman Orientation chairman, Charles Knight, from whose fertile brain full many a sharp scheme has come in his few years on this earth (numerically).

For Chairman Knight conceived, arranged for, engineered, and put on the first freshman-sohomore tug of war ever to be seen on Centenary's venerable campus. It was a very short affair—the freshmen winning it with a slight tug, and pulling the sophs in the path of a fire hose which had been conveniently arranged for. The sophs, led by their president of doubtful sophomority, Carl Vollmer, were the underdogs from the very beginning, and hadn't a Chinaman's chance.

So the frosh rules ended very gracefully, and everyone called the experiment a social success, and forgot about it. The question is, what will they do next year?

Beauty, beauty, everywhere but—

BEAUTY CONTEST

The Yoncopin staff announces their annual Beauty Contest—so what happens? Trying to cut down on the number of nominations, they conceive the singular idea of having 20 signatures to a ballot instead of the usual ten. So every girl in school who ever thought of the novel notion of wearing lipstick is put up on the list of so-called bewitching fems—that is all of those who had put the old mazuma down on the table for membership in some "You got the money we love ya" organization.

The day for the big affair arrives and some of the more gullible members of the staff are sent out into the country to pick up the selector of Centenary charm, a famous French artist who is refugeeing in this country. This gracious gentleman almost keels over his escorts when he explains that the informer of his stint forgot to go into detail. He asks, quote, "Ees eet cattle I am suppozed to jodge?" unquote. What they should of done was to stop the whole mess right there and answered in the affirmative.

HOW TO BE A GENTLEMAN IN TEN EASY—

Since, during our search for higher learning, no one has offered us a course in this manly art, we decided that we would give the full and particular details in this small space as—well—there ain't really much to it fellows. Just a few simple rules to follow—that's all.

The first and most important thing to remember is—"Don't ever wear green garters with a yellow necktie."

Second in the line of things that are nil is the fact that you should never offer to pay the check under any circumstances. It gives you that superiority feeling and at the same time makes your companion admire you for your individuality, providing that your companion has an I. Q. of 32.47—that's another thing—always look up your friend's I. Q. grade before you invite them out to dinner. You will find that it will help tremendously. But by all means, never wear green garters with a yellow necktire.

SOLILOQUY

So they told us to fill up this section with stuff and things and if you've read everything up to this little Pulitzer ditty, you'll probably agree.

So we've got a cut left over and can't remember why we ever picked it out in the first place. But since the cut don't in particular represent anything and this stuff don't either, we figure that it might turn out to be a pretty good little piece of copy before we get enough words to fill the space. (Let's see—that makes 87 words 'n I gotta meet Mabel at two—yeh I'll make it).

Now let's take a look at the cut (No. 201). We have a very attractive damsel seated in the stands during the Homecoming game. She has a little card pinned to her collar which reads, quote, "Let's beat Tech," unquote. Now that's irony for ya. (Oughta go talk to Doc Steger about that word 'irony' but—ain't got time—gotta meet Mabel at two—).

Then too—(phone rings). "Publications, go ahead and sue us, we ain't got no money." ———Oh hello, Mabel.. ——but Mabel,—— okey, okey, I'm on my way." Now ain't that a woman for ya. She says I said one-thirty instead of two. Oh well, I've got enough words anyway.
